Applicants for Money Order Offices Refused.

A special to the Chicago Tribune from Washington says that owing to the great reductions in the objectless appropriations, the Postmaster General will be obliged to send circulars to 3000 towns which have applied for money order offices, stating that their requests cannot be complied with as the law requires the returns of all money order offices to be made weekly. A very considerable force is necessary to conduct the book keeping of this branch of the service and so few clerks can be put under the appropriation that they will barely keep up the present volume of work It is probable that the Postmaster General will discontinue returning dead letters not even calling money to their writers This is the only branch of the service that can be reduced without diminishing the revenue

Tweed Arrested at the Request of our Government.

There is now no doubt that Tweed has been arrested at the request of our government. The Democrats claim the credit for Tilden for his capture on the ground that the State Department could not have taken an official step which led to his capture unless Tilden as Governor had made a formal request that the department use its good offices with foreign powers to that end Tildenites will be prudent not to build too great hopes on any such hypothesis The State Department officials acting under instructions from Secretary Fish to the effect that the whole matter is one of the most to be kept a state secret until it is an accomplished fact decline to give any information whatever upon the subject. There is reason to believe however that the part taken by Tilden is very insignificant and personal, being solely what he was united by his official position. Doubtless as governor he requested the State Department to secure Tweed's return if possible It is understood this request was however made more at the instance of the municipality of New York City than on account of the government of the State The credit is due to the State department at Washington and the consul and other officials of that department

CHICAGO Sept. 11—The Inter Ocean's Washington special says opinions differ even among Republicans as to whether any political significance should be given to the course of our authorities in securing Tweed. Attorney General Taft however does not hesitate to say Tweed's return will have great influence on the campaign.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Earl Derby on the Bulgarian Atrocities.

LONDON Sept 10—Earl Derby to day received two deputations of workmen's societies In reply to their address he said the government had been charged with indifference to the great crimes committed in Bulgaria All that had been done in diplomatic matters and in sending the fleet to Besikta bay was done if not before the outrages occurred at any event before they were known He denied that the government was in any sense responsible for the butcheries of fanaticism among the Turkish population He describes the previous action of the government and said they had nothing to regret in what they had done If the Turks believed all Europe desired to drive them back into Asia they would break out in excesses prompted by revenge and despair He believed the conviction that England desired fair play had done more than anything else to prevent the war from assuming the character of a religious war and to prevent the commission of atrocities in many provinces England had no exception of position in consequence of the Crimean war which at its outset was pushed mainly by the Emperor of the French Lord Derby said he believed it would be a mistake now as formerly to let the Turkish empire take care of itself The value to us of its territorial integrity was real and permanent The last war in the Eastern question was who to save Constantinople Any attempt at partition would be the signal for European war but the relations between Turkey and her various subject races had been modified greatly and they might be modified again The arrangements effected with the government which had been made with Egypt Lebanon and Crete had been settled with the concurrence of outraged powers but he would say it in his name to any scheme which he believed would work well in the future. The British government was doing all in its power to secure an armistice and peace The change to be made must depend upon the concerted action of all Europe and into the nature thereof he could not now enter It was not just to condemn a whole race for faults of some The endeavor to blot Turkey from the map of Europe would lead to war in which the Bulgarian horrors would be severely expended It would drive the Turks into Asia and still there would be many Christians and Mohammedans living together and not in Turkish Asia only I don't think we could treat the question in any way that would induce prejudice their position than if looking at the question against these atrocities we had language and display feelings against the whole Turkish Mohammedan races which would excite feelings of mutual animosity between the two religions Let me add one word of warning Do not suppose because we all look up to this question from a philanthropic point of view that all foreign powers and politicians do the same and that as a sequel to this I would ask your government to do that which is impossible because I wish you to adopt that course You put it out of our power to do anything at all

A number of deputations asked Earl Derby what chance there was for the adoption of Midhat Pasha's constitutional reforms To which his lordship replied, he did not know what were. Midhat Pasha's proposals He was aware that that statesman had very liberal ideas about reforming Ottoman administration but was not aware of the character of his project Even if he knew it he would not be prepared to say anything about it, without some previous examination and study

The London Times on the Eastern Question.

LONDON, Sept 11—The Times to-day, in an editorial article on the Eastern question, says the temper of Europe is swiftly undergoing a change—more countries than Russia might easily pass beyond the control of statesmen The very danger of which Earl Derby warned Turkey threatens to become a reality He said with startling force that the renewal of outrages would be more disastrous to the Porte than the loss of a battle If statements regarding the atrocities in Servia prove true it matters little whether they should afterwards prove exaggerations The Russian people seem to be approaching a state of popular excitement when even a false report will make peace an impossibility Every day of warfare adds to the likelihood that the strife may overflow its present limits There are diplomatic signs which might warn Turkey's rulers how narrow is the foothold on which they must pick their way They will find it less easy than it has been in former times to keep Turkey safe by exciting the jealousies of rival powers. If they display their wonted astuteness they will seize any expedient that offers a chance of peace

The Turkish Outrages.

BELGRADE Sept 11—Though accounts of some Turkish outrages are unhappily too well established to be doubted a fair idea of the proceedings of the Turkish force is not to be gathered from the fearful tales so carefully collected An English gentleman who passed through the Servian district lately visited by the Turks, reports he had many opportunities of talking with people whose homes had been altogether in the hands of the enemy and he had met no single case of gross outrage Before the publication of orders rendering soldiers mutilating themselves liable to penalty of death or imprisonment for life, many Servians had already been arrested for that offence On one occasion as many as forty in one batch were executed There are hospitals, it is said in which more than half the patients are of this class

Religious Intolerance Rebuked.

MADRID Sept. 11—Inquiry has been ordered into the conduct of the sub prefect of Port Mahac against whom complaints were made of religious intolerance He will be prosecuted, should it prove he has violated the religious toleration clause of the constitution

FROM THE CAPITAL

GATHERING OF THE CLANS—THE STATE HOUSE—LIVERY AND STABLES.

SALEM Sept 10 1876

The legislative cauldron may be said to be fairly simmering, at the present time preparatory to the boiling point which it will probably assume before the close of the present week As early as Thursday last the members of both houses commenced arriving and to-night there are but few absent from headquarters Trains from either way have arrived laden with legislators lobbyists and candidates for the various offices at the disposal of the chosen few Saturday evening a express train from Portland concluded the rush and the Chemeketa Hotel about 8 o'clock presented a busy scene literally jammed with strangers from abroad Candidates never appeared more numerous The majority of them are Democrats working for the caucus nominations, Republican solicitors being few and far between VanCleave and Whiteaker are mentioned as candidates for President of the Senate with the chances in favor of the former Fiddler and Gault loom up as probable candidates for the Speaker's chair in the House. Syl Simpson appears prominent as a candidate for chief clerkship of the Senate, with Captain Wiley as assistant. Messrs Gurney Lincoln and J K Mercer of Portland are all auctions to become sergeant at arms in the upper House D Arcy and Sheridan are spoken of as enrolling clerks, and F R Wilson as clerk of committee on ways and means in the same branch with Hugh P. Rankin as doorkeeper Colonel White and L F A Shaw are rivals for chief clerkship in the House Hadaway is again a candidate for sergeant at arms but will find a determined rival in T M Scott. of this city while Wilhelm of Portland, would not object to the caucus nomination W H Styles is willing to assume the duties of engrossing clerk and L F Williams is anxious for the enrolling clerkship. Young Ralston of Albany, has a pretty sure thing as page of the Senate, while Gee of East Portland, Doherty of your city Walter Wade and "Budd" Bell of Salem are working for like positions in the House These are prominent candidates while there are others who will be "sprung" to-morrow A caucus for temporary organization will be held to-morrow morning by the Democrats, and a permanent organization is looked for on Tuesday

THE CAPITOL BUILDING

Will be ready for occupancy promptly on time Yesterday through the courtesy of the ever obliging Secretary of State S F Chadwick, Esq, we were shown through the various rooms, commencing with his own department, neat and convenient in every detail The Senate Chamber is certainly as pleasant a room of the kind as there is on the coast. The halls and stairways leading to it are covered with heavy matting to deaden the noise of footsteps The room inside the railing is nicely carpeted with Brussels carpeting of a dark, although attractive pattern neatly matched with heavy bordering Immediately over the President's chair hangs an oil painting representing the Father of his Country, life size It is the property of A Bush Esq., who has kindly loaned it for the opening session The chandeliers six in number, are of a new and elegant design superior to anything of the kind in the State The building will be lit by gas and when illuminated the Senate Chamber will present a magnificent appearance The temporary Hall of Representatives—to be eventually used as the State library rooms—is likewise a model department, although being a temporary affair, less elegant in its surroundings. Brussels is beneath our feet and roomy quarters are on every hand The chandeliers are of less brilliant design, but are nevertheless neat. Both Houses are commodious The members' desks have been repainted and the old furniture looks better than was anticipated The stationery documents, etc, have been already distributed and to morrow's noon day sun will see the new quarters formally occupied Secretary Chadwick certainly deserves great credit for the good taste exhibited in arranging the various rooms even those to be occupied by the various committees, and we may well feel proud of such portions of our Capitol building as are completed They are every way worthy of our rapidly growing State.

THE STATE FAIR GROUNDS

Accepting a seat to-day behind a handsome span of bays driven by the well known horse trainer Jas Welch we paid a visit to the State Fair Grounds to view the fast horses The road thither as well as the enclosure proper are fearfully dusty but otherwise the drive was a pleasant one We first visited Mr Welch's stables and there found eight horses in training viz Mollie Welch, owned by M O Lownsdale who has made her mile below the forties and who never was in better condition or did better work than at the present time Tunstalk, owned by Landers of your city Lady Bellfounder and Bellfounder Chief owned by Dr Mack of Walla Walla Dan, the property of C P Bacon of your city, who delights in driving a good team Pathfinder Jr., owned by Mighty Capt Jinks owned by Sol Durbin of this city, and a colt owned by Mr Kaiser Jos Crab a well known horse man of your city, has in training Billy Bigham, winner of the Centennial purse Billy Dixon and Sor Faced Charley all animals of good repute Jim Bybee is on hand with several good horses, including Ryestraw and Oregon owned by Jno F Miller Gen Sherman Hard Bargain and Talent James Cozort, of Canyon City has in training Capt Jack and Eliza Jane Sorrell colts of good promise H Johnson of Hatsey Flats has Zela a two year old filly This completes the list with the exception of the well known stallion Dr Lindsay, owned by Bybee and Miller This animal is the sire of nearly every running horse in the State his colts being considered way up in many cases Good judges consider him a standard horse He is a handsome bay, 15 hands high weighing about 1 000 pounds and is 15 years old

THE RACE TRACK

Is in a miserable condition, the trainers being loud in their denunciation of those having the matter in charge Work on it was commenced so late in the season that unless something is done mighty lively it will be in no fit condition for trials of speed during the fair Uneven in spots narrow in others and totally unfit for use everywhere Unless it is placed in better order this week several of the horses will be taken elsewhere for training purposes There is no use denying, the fact the races are a leading feature of our State Fair and pains should be taken to afford horsemen every facility for training their stock in order to make a good display It is to be hoped the management will attend to this matter without delay The mechanics pavilion is well under way, and carpenters are employed in various parts of the grounds making necessary repairs to the buildings fences etc The new water works are in course of construction, some of the main pipes being laid but appearances indicate they will not be in running order before fair week About twenty men and boys find constant employment around the stables and some enterprising man would find a profitable job to open a restaurant there Aspirants are compelled to do their own cooking, and it becomes a monotonous task in the course of time Everything, in fact, augurs another grand success this fall and we feel confident that in this as other grave proportions the State fair of 1876 will prove an immense success

AND THEY SUICIDE

Scarcely has the sun taken a breathing spell after the fatal accident of Sunday last when we are again shocked by the account of the suicide of H C Dayton a well to do farmer residing near Hubbard's station in this county He returned as well as usual on Thursday evening last and on the following morning was found dead in his orchard killed by his own hand He apparently lay down upon his back placed the muzzle of the gun to his mouth drawing the trigger with his foot The cause is supposed to be temporary insanity brought on by the death of his wife a short time previously He leaves an only daughter to mourn her loss

A CLEVER PARODY

A journal published in Atchison, Kansas, prints the following choice bit of irony in view of the large number of sudden acquisitions of wealth reported in the newspapers of late,

A short time ago Melissa Elder was heir to about £112 000 000, amounting to about $500 000 000 It seems that her great great-grandfather on her mother's side, who was a Roman senator had all his property which consisted of a vast amount of real estate in and around the city of Rome, confiscated to the Roman empire on account of his being concerned with Marc Antony in the terrible assault on the body of Cesar Cesar's wife was also accused at the same time but Marc Antony afterward said that she was above suspicion and nothing was done in the matter All the property of Melissa's great-great-grandfather, however, was confiscated upon the testimony of a detective The detectives was afterwards taken with frenzied remorse and wrote a full confession, moved to Pompeii and was living in that ill fated town when the sudden catastrophe which befell it cut him down in the prime of life During the recent discoveries among the ruins of Pompeii this confession was discovered, and Miss Elder a great great grandfather was fully vindicated A Chicago lawyer who was traveling through Europe heard of the circumstances and by the aid of detectives found in the person of Melissa Elder the only surviving heir of her lamented great-great grandfather The lawyer has taken the prosecution of the case on a contingent fee, and Melissa leaves for Rome to take possession of that town Of course we tender our congratulations $500, 000,000 does not grow on bushes"

That is right enough If the Romans don't want to be Jo Thomased out of their property, let them buy Miss Elder's title

PROFITS FROM SODA WATER — The hot weather suggests a little inquiry into the profits of the soda water business The cafes containing ten gallons of carbonated water, are furnished to the druggists at $2.25 each The common soda tumbler contains about one half pint If the glasses were filled full every time the can would furnish 100 glasses of soda As the glasses are seldom if ever filled more than two thirds full of water the rest being foam it is estimated that each can furnishes about 300 glasses of soda water One gallon of syrup is estimated to go with each of carbonated water although some retailers give more Assuming that a gallon and a half of syrup is used the cost figures up as follows charged on $2.25 gallon and a half of syrup $3.38 ice cream for cream syrup to 60 cents total cost of 300 glasses of soda At ten cents a glass the retailer receives $30 which looks like a pretty fair profit At five cents a glass there would be 100 per cent profit and at three cents a glass there would be more money in soda water than in groceries To be sure druggists say that their soda costs them between five and six cents a glass and no doubt it can be so figured but anybody who wants iced soda at home at a cost of $3 75 for a charged fountain and a gallon of any kind of syrup and is willing to pay ten cents for ice, will find that he can have 200 glasses of as good soda as he is likely to get anywhere for about two cents a glass —Providence Journal

MORE FACTS ABOUT TILDEN'S INCOME.

The Tribune has the figures showing the amount of income tax paid by Mr. Tilden from 1862 to 1872, inclusive, taken from the books of the internal revenue office. In 1863 two assessments were paid, the first being the annual tax of five per cent. on $7,627, and 2½ per cent. on $7,336, the last being the special war tax. Of the five per cent. tax on the total amount of $14,992, in 1864, Tilden made no return, and his income was estimated by the assessor. On the amount thus assessed Tilden paid the tax. In 1865, as in the previous year, no income was reported, and the tax, with the penalty of 25 per cent., was collected on the assessor's estimate of his income. In the following year it was increased to 50 per cent.—no return being made. The only year from 1864 to 1872 in which Tilden made any return of his income was in 1870, when he paid tax on $14,364. The transcript from the assessor's books is as follows:

1862—Annual income, $7,118; rate per cent., 3; total tax, $213 54.

1863—Annual income, $7,620; rate per cent., 5; tax, $381 30; income, $7,366; rate per cent., 5; tax, $147 32; total tax, $528 62. 1863—war tax—$140 52; rate per cent., 5; total tax, $74 98.

1864—To include the penalty on an income of $5,000; rate per cent., 5; tax, $250; rate per cent., 10; tax, $1,500; total tax, $750.

1865 Income, $5,000; rate per cent., 5; tax, $250; income, $15,000; rate per cent., 10; tax, $1,500; penalty tax, $43 75; total tax, $2,-187 50.

1869 Income, $14,000; rate per cent., 5; tax, $700; penalty tax, $350; total tax, $1,050.

1867—Income, $15,000; rate per cent., 5; tax, $750; penalty, $400; total tax, $1,200.

1868—Income, $14,364; rate per cent., 5; total tax, $718 20.

1869 Income, $17,000; rate per cent., 5; tax, $850; total tax, $172 50; penalty tax, $42 50.

1870—Income, $30,000; rate per cent., 2½ tax, $750; penalty tax, $250; total tax, $750.

1871—Income, $25,000; rate per cent., 2½ tax, $625; penalty tax, $312 50; total tax, $937 50.

If you think there may be some explanation of the return for that particular year, the explanation can you give of the fact that from 1863 to 1872 he made no return at all? Why did he comply with the law? Why did he make this income? Was that the year in which he "saved" his money? Is there any other reasonable explanation except that by the payment of the war tax he was enabled to avoid getting off cheaper than by paying his back dues.

When it is considered also that Judge Selden, a distinguished jurist, has explicitly decided that the excuse set up by Mr. Tilden for concealing $20,000 of his income of 1862 is no excuse in law any more than in morals, the last inch of ground is cut from under the great Tammany idol's feet. This income business is getting really too serious a matter to be longer treated lightly. It is opening the eyes of the country to the true character of the Democratic candidate for the Presidency to such an extent as to cause a panic in Democratic circles. The Fort Hayes stock, much above par here than out, is rising perceptibly everywhere, and its appreciation is undoubtedly attributable in no small degree to the influence of these damaging disclosures. The mass of American voters may be so attached to party as to give their support to the nominees of the party in face of facts like these that have come out concerning Mr. Tilden, but there is a goodly number in all parties who will not shut their eyes to the danger of placing a man in the Presidential chair who is proved not only to be a defrauder of the government, but to have taken an oath which requires the most astute special pleading to make it anything short of downright perjury. Mr. Tilden may as well retire from the contest, so far as the chances for his election are concerned.

THE REMEDY FOR CRIME.

Our Radical exchanges and their orators take a great delight in harping on Gov. Tilden's income tax. It is reported from time to time what Bliss, the U. S. attorney, proposes to do in the matter, to leave the impression that Gov. Tilden is guilty of some crime, and that suits already gone forth that he proposes to forfeit to the United States an action against him, but at the same time that the case cannot be brought to trial until after the election. Now, if Gov. Tilden is really guilty of any crime against the government why not have him arrested and charged with the criminal action of the matter, and have him brought to trial without delay? If he is guilty as charged by the Radicals, it is a criminal offense, and subject to criminal prosecution. Then why does not Bliss have the Governor of New York arrested and tried for his crime instead of waiting to institute a civil action for perjury? Simply because it would not look like a move in the proper direction. It will establish Gov. Tilden's innocence and recoil on the heads of his prosecutors. There is no need of delay in this matter if the proof is ready to establish the guilt of Gov. Tilden as charged by the Radicals, and does any sane man for a moment think that if there was any truth in this charge, the Radicals would not have Gov. Tilden under bonds before this time? The lie may last till after the election, and for that purpose the Radicals are nursing it.—Evening Standard.

Thus does the organ of the great embodyment of reform beg the question. But it will not do to shuffle out of the difficulty in that way. The Presidential election will hardly be postponed to await a trial of Mr. Tilden when it can be reached at the end of "the law's delays." Tilden may never be tried or arrested, and still he will be none the less guilty. The thing for the Democratic press to do is to furnish some explanation of the hideous facts alleged and apparently proved against their chieftain, and until they do this it will be idle for them to vapor about courts of justice. Nobody was ever convicted of the credit mobilier thefts, but everybody knows they were committed. Babcock was acquitted in the courts, but we venture the assertion that the Standard will not, very soon begin to insist that the world shall reverse its verdict of guilty, and declare him an innocent and much abused man. The statutes of limitation long since ran against Tilden's act, and a criminal prosecution of him would fail on that account, though it may be a civil action could be maintained for the taxes of which he defrauded the government. We have a very distinct recollection of an attempt to parry a charge of embezzlement and bigamy against a prominent man by saying, "why don't you prosecute him?" But that way of meeting the case did not answer. No more will it answer in Tilden's case. The more the organs quibble and prevaricate about the matter, the more plain does it become that the accusation can not be fairly met.

A Marion county Republican, whose communication appears this morning, thinks he has discovered a plot to load Hayes and Wheeler, and Richard Williams, in this fall's election, with the sins, real and imaginary, of the old defunct Republican ring. The plan, as detailed by him, has the appearance of practicability, but we cannot think there is the least danger that Republican members of the legislature can be hoodwinked into performing the part assigned to them in the programme. The Republicans are in the minority. They can not by any possibility elect a caucus candidate to the Senate. A caucus, therefore, by them, on the Senatorial question, could accomplish nothing by any possibility except to unite the Democracy in the legislature, and divide the Republicans in the State. We do not mean to be understood, either by admitting the communication referred to or by anything we say about the matter, as assuming the truth of the matters alleged against the distinguished gentleman whose name is mentioned. That question is wholly immaterial for the purpose of this campaign. The State of Oregon is close, at best. The Republicans can act together only in case all cause of dissension is kept out of the contest, and they can win only in case they act together. That is a fundamental proposition in this campaign, and to lose sight of it is to lose the State. Hayes and Wheeler must carry nobody else's sins, and Richard Williams must not be handicapped with the name of anybody, if we are to win the race. Every one who has the success of the party at heart will be willing to do whatever he can honorably to assist in achieving a victory, and it is too apparent to need stating that some who have in times past been prominent in the party, can do most just at this juncture by doing nothing.

For some years past operations under the superintendance of the engineers of the regular army, have been vigorously carried on to remove the dangerous obstructions to commerce at Hell Gate in New York harbor. The name Hell Gate is variously derived, but the character of the current through it indicates that the old Norse Hvirl-Hurl, or Whirl, Gate is the correct one. The tide flowing in by this channel from the Sound and the tidal current from the Atlantic by Sandy Hook, causing very many eddies and currents. The reef known as Hell Gate reef makes out from the Long Island shore, and the currents sweeping around and over it drag vessels upon it to their destruction. If this reef could be removed the most dangerous eddy would cease to exist with it. In order to remove this, many projects have been tried, but with no good result. The reef has now been undermined and pierced with numerous galleries, which are now being filled with such explosives as rend rock, dynamite, nitro-glycerine and gun powder, all of which are to be exploded simultaneously and are expected to shatter the reef. When this is done the shattered rocks and boulders will be removed by a dredge. It is believed that the new channel thus made will be very much safer than the present one, and that it will be constantly used by vessels trading on the sound.

It is not too late yet for our fruit exhibit to be sent to the Centennial Exposition, and the benefit it would confer on the State to have a good display there can scarcely be overestimated. The western fruit-producing States on the other side of the Rocky mountains are making every effort to place their fruits on exhibition to the best advantage, and it behooves Oregon not to be behind hand. We have, by far, the best fruit country on the continent, and can force a recognition of that fact if we only seize the present opportunity. One of the greatest attractions that could be presented to those contemplating a change of residence would be a good display of Oregon fruit. A small appropriation for that purpose by the legislature would, we are convinced, meet no serious opposition from the people, and it certainly would be worth a great deal to the whole State.

Some of our readers will remember seeing a section of a white oak tree with a pair of antlers embedded in it, which was exhibited here a month or so ago. The curiosity was sent to Philadelphia, and, as will be seen by the following extract from the Philadelphia Times, is attracting some notice there:

A NOVEL COFFIN FOR AN ANTLER.—Agricultural Hall has received another curiosity in the shape of a section of a white oak tree, two feet long and twenty inches in diameter, with a pair of antlers embedded in the heart. With the exception of their points, these were invisible until the section was formed. The latter was cut from the tree at a height of nine feet from the ground. The tree grew on the bank of the Willamette river, near Salem, Oregon.

D. K. Warren, Republican candidate for joint Senator for Clatsop, Columbia and Tillamook counties, got 35 majority in Astoria in the special election of yesterday, and it is estimated he carries Clatsop county by 80. His majority in the district will probably be 60 or upwards. We congratulate the people of the district on the choice of Mr. Warren to represent them in the State Senate.

The legislature organized yesterday without a struggle. There are no contested seats and apparently nothing to prevent the business of the session from moving on at once. The buttonholing and bargaining on the senatorial question will be lively for a while, but it is said there is a determination among members to act on their own judgment in spite of the buttonhole brigade. We shall see.

While Democratic organs are denouncing as unnecessary and tyrannical the circular of the Attorney-General relative to preserving order in the election, a Hayes and Wheeler meeting at Baltimore is broken up by a mob and the speaker of the meeting is beaten within an inch of his life, and in Louisiana such a state of terrorism exists as makes a fair election altogether improbable.

The State Fair this year is to be the great carnival of the season. From all quarters we learn that more people will attend the Fair than in any previous year. The people alone will be a show worth going to see, and from all accounts the display of articles and animals will exceed anything in that line ever witnessed in Oregon.

The depression in trade in the Eastern States is such that thousands of skilled workmen are unable to get work, and are obliged to beg or steal bread to save themselves from starvation. It is stated that a great number of the tramps are men who are wandering from place to place in search of work, but are unable to find anything to do.

By an imperial ukase the use of the language of Little Russia is forbidden in schools, courts, and printed books. The object of this is to make the language of the Empire of Russia uniform; but it will give great offense to the Little Russians who look upon themselves as the oldest and most respectable portion of the subjects of the Czar.

The Maine election yesterday was a sample of the way the Republicans are going to be beaten this fall. Instead of going to leeward, as has been predicted, they make large gains.

The Indian Commission are reported to be waiting developments. They will be fortunate if the expected development takes any other shape than that of a prematurely bald head. The first thing to do, it seems to us, is to whip the Indians soundly and then treat with them.

The Maine election passed off quietly and has resulted in a victory for the Republicans by a largely increased majority.

CITY.

A BUTTERMILK TRUTOR.—Sunday, while a well known resident of this city was out bird-hunting in a northwestern direction from the city, and not a great distance to the suburbs, he met with an incident which, while it resulted without the loss of a drop of human gore, might have terminated far more seriously, had he acted with less discretion. While tramping around, the gentleman—who was the highly-prized animal missed from the owner instituted a search. He ranshed about through the brush for some time, and shouted vigorously for the lost animal. Failing to find the animal, Mr. J. P. mounted the prostrate trunk of a huge tree to take a survey of the surrounding landscape. He observed a small cow standing a short distance away, and also looking leisurely around, was angrily approached by a fellow whose broad brogue denoted his Teutonic origin. Our Dutch friend seemed to be in a towering passion, to which he was aroused by a series of broken oaths and curses, and by gestures he peremptorily ordered the intruder to leave his illiac, accompanying the order with threats. The hunter felt disposed at first to pay little heed to the insolence of the irate Dutchman, and stood his ground. But his indifference evinced by the hunter fanned the patriotic soul of the Teuton, for, seeing that words and grass failed to make the cow change quarters, he determined to resort to harsher measures. He ran into his house, and in a moment reappeared armed with a formidable-looking shotgun. Deliberately cocking the weapon, the Teuton shouted: "Now, my, you feller, you shust clear ride away from mit here, or I vill shoot you." Seeing the matter in earnest business, the J. P. leaped from his position and disappeared in the brush. He has since learned that the Dutchman has for Charley Lawrence, and that he was endeavoring to entice the cow away to impound them. The joke was too good to keep, and our hero had to tell it.

HUNTING.—A correspondent furnishes particulars of the exploits of a lady—how she called a noble stag to bite the dust; Saturday last one of our townsmen, while in her Milwaukie, heard in the adjoining [illegible] at first, the voice of hounds after a time came nearer and the music grew louder, at length rose the lady's spirits, nearer they came. She could no longer, so running to the house and her husband's rifle, and had a few steps when she espied the the bounds in the creek below. Deliberate aim, she fired, making true shot on record, bringing down [illegible] We heard the other day that the [illegible] about to start for the mountains but his friends are inclined to suggest the "old man" stay home and [illegible], and let his better half go [illegible]

AN UNLUCKY SHIP.—The American ship Garibaldi, which arrived at San Francisco on the 6th inst. from New York, seems to be a "doomed ship," judging from the number of seamen who were killed by falling from aloft," to use the regulation phrase. On April 22d, while in latitude 37 degrees 10 minutes north, longitude 58 degrees west, Frederick Cummings, of England, and Thomas Blumlein, of New York, were lost overboard from the jib-boom, and Edward Dodds, of England, fell from the mainstopsail yard while reefing and was killed. On the 4th of July, while in latitude 57 south, longitude 79 west, Patrick Connolly, of Long Island, and Charles Newman, while furling the maintopsail, fell from the yard. Connolly lived only two hours, but Newman, who escaped with less injury, recovered.

A BIG HAUL.—Mr. Geo. F. Greene and Wiley Chapman returned yesterday from St. Helens where they have been on a raid against the finny tribe. Eminent success crowned their labors, for they brought back to the city some 400 beautiful trout, the fruit of one day's fishing. The fish were captured in Milton creek.

OREGON CITY ITEMS.

Our Oregon City correspondent sends these items:

A movement is on foot to construct a bridge across the Wallamet at this place. The citizens are subscribing money for that purpose very liberally.

Dr. J. W. Watts, Republican Presidential elector, addressed the Hayes and Wheeler club of this town on last Friday night. The crowd was a large and intelligent one, and the presence of many ladies bore testimony of the interest taken by all classes in the present canvass. The Doctor's effort was commended by all, and will make votes here for the electoral ticket.

Hon. J. H. Slater was in town this week, doubtless sounding his friend Myers, and other Democratic members of the Legislature, on the Senatorial question. No use. Myers said in the canvass that he would not vote for Grover, but he will. He must. He has disbursed campaign funds for Grover & Co. too long and too successfully to go back on them now.

The Misdirection of the Bile.

The misdirection of the bile, a consequence which ensues when the liver is inactive and the bowels torpid, produces a number of bodily evils. The blood becomes contaminated with the bilious fluid, causing the skin and the whites of the eyes to assume a yellowish tinge; dyspepsia and nausea supervene, the tongue becomes furred, the breath foetid, there are pains in the side and between the shoulder blades, the urine is high colored and scalding, and in aggravated cases jaundice and inflammation of the liver ensue. All these consequences may be prevented or obviated by using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a vegetable alterative tonic which stimulates the inactive liver to exert itself in secreting and directing the bile, acts naturally upon the bowels and removes every trace of indigestion.

ALBANY LETTER.

FORMATION OF A HAYES AND WHEELER CLUB—AN ENTHUSIASTIC SEND-OFF.

ALBANY, Sept. 11, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

On Saturday evening, in accordance with a previous call, quite a considerable number of the Republican citizens of Albany assembled at the Opera House for the purpose of taking the initiatory steps toward forming a Hayes and Wheeler Club, and contributing our mite toward the preservation of the great American Republic. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Coll. Van Cleve, who nominated Mr. J. F. Backinsto for chairman, which was confirmed by the meeting; after which Mr. C. E. Wolverton was nominated and elected secretary.

On motion a committee of five, consisting of N. B. Humphrey, J. H. Foster, Coll. Van Cleve, P. H. Raymond and Geo. Monteith, were appointed a committee on constitution and by-laws and permanent organization, with instruction to report one week from to-night.

On motion of D. P. S. Plummer, S. E. Young and N. Baum, were appointed a committee to procure the necessary lubricating appliances for the successful accomplishment of the objects of this organization.

On motion Coll. Van Cleve and N. B. Humphrey were appointed a committee for the procurement of speakers to address the future meetings of the club.

After these proceedings were had, Capt. N. B. Humphrey was called for, and came forward and addressed the meeting in his peculiarly sharp, pungent and happy manner. By the way, the Captain was with General Hayes in his campaigns against the Democracy of Shenandoah valley, and elsewhere in the South, and says the General rendered him most excellent and efficient service in that missionary work. His remarks were highly appreciated by the audience.

Next, Mr. J. F. Backinsto was called for. He briefly addressed the meeting, showing up the fallacies and sophistry of that now bumbug party in a most forcible and convincing manner.

Rev. Mr. Stratton followed Mr. B. His address was the whole thing in a nushell. He had been driven out of the South on short notice for his opinion's sake; he was a Republican because to be a Republican was to be a free American citizen, not subject to any party lash or dictatorial control from any source; he had no sympathy with that system of society which on account of different political opinions, prevented any American citizen from traveling the length and breadth of the land; he could not vote for a man for the highest position in the gift of the American people who, when the government was in its sorest need, was promulgating the doctrine that this government was a failure; he could not act with a party, the leaders of which had done all in their power to destroy the government.

Mr. Stratton's speech was most enthusiastically cheered throughout, as was each of those preceding. In fact, we had a most enthusiastic meeting, which portends a most thorough and efficient canvass until election day, when old Linn will render a good account of herself in this our battle for the right.

From all parts of the county we hear cheering reports for the Republican cause. Republicans are taking more interest in this than they have in any election for a number of years; while with the Democracy, though Governor Grover's illustrious General and his supliant aids are doing all in their power to marshal his forces, there is much discontent and some outright mutiny. OCCASIONAL.

The Albany Democrat says: "Henry Kelly, a young man about 18 years old, son of J. J. Kelly, of the Forks, met with a very painful accident recently. He was working with a threshing company at the widow Calovan's place, about three miles west of Scio, and had been stationed on the horse-power to drive. The horses became frightened and commenced running, when young Kelly, in trying to get hold of them, fell in such a manner that his right foot was caught in the horse-power, and before the horses could be stopped the part of his foot in front of the instep was torn completely off."

AMONG THE ADMIRABLE PROPERTIES OF GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP is that of cleansing the head of dandruff and preventing its subsequent accumulation, by opening the pores of the scalp and thus keeping it healthfully moist.

Missionaries and others sojourning in foreign lands should not fail to take with them a good supply of Ayer's Ague Cure. It is the most reliable medicine for all purposes there is in the world.

Contagious diseases such as horse ail, glander etc., may be prevented by the use of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders. Persons traveling with horses should take note of this.

Sheriff Herren returned to Albany from the hunt after the Scio burglars Friday evening. He got on their trail at Scio and followed it to Salem, where the game took cover, and, as he met with no one who had been close enough to the burglars to recognize them, the chase had to be given up. Within a mile or so of Salem they dismounted and turned their horses into a pasture, and the last seen of them they passed the depot going towards town.

James M. Cornwall, living on Dry creek, Umatilla county, was engaged in driving cattle out of his fields, when in swinging his whip the lash struck his left eye, injuring it to such an extent that renders the loss of sight probable.

MY PRAYER

BY J W SCRIPP

O Lord
Let me not die before I've done for thee
Some great work whate er that work may be
Call me not home with mission unfulfilled —
Let me not have my share of ground untilled
Impress this truth upon me —that not one
Can do my portion that I leave undone
For each one in the vineyard hath a spot
To labor in for life, and weary not
Then give me strength all faithfully to toil
Converting barren earth to fruitful soil
I long to be an instrument of thine,
To gather worshippers unto thy shrine,—
To be the means some human soul to save
From the dark terrors of a hopeless grave
Yet most I want, in spirit of content,
To work where'er thou it wish my labor spent —
Whether at home, or in a stranger clime,—
In days of joy, or sorrow s sterner time —
I want a spirit—passive—to be still,
And by thy power to do thy holy will
And when the prayer unto my lips doth rise,
Before a new home doth my soul surprise—
Let me accomplish some great work for thee,
(Which may be sure, though yet I cannot see,)
If my poor spirit o'er gainst thine rebel,
As if my will—not thine—were well,
Subdue it, Lord,—let my petition be—
(In meek submission to thy wise decree,)—
O! make me useful in this world of thine,
In ways according to thy will—not mine
Grant my dear friends "mong thine to have a place,
Or plete'y ransomed—crowned by thy grace,
And may we deem our greatest work to be,
Living or dying! still to live to thee.

Portland, Oregon, Sept. 7, 1876

MR HAYES'S LETTER TO THE LIBERALS.

One reason which the letter gives why Mr Tilden should be elected is that Mr Hayes is inferior to him in political ability and statesmanship. Mr Tilden is a Democratic Herschel, who has done the State great service, who has been trusted, and whose capacity has long been well known to the greatest corporations and the largest interests in the land" But Mr. Hayes, we learn, has not been trained in any school of large affairs, nor has he ever had any great questions of public policy. All this may be true, but it does not follow that the best man will necessarily be the best president. Something more than knowledge is needed in the presidential office, and Lincoln, who was not considered as able as Buchanan, was a much better man. The hand of Buchanan trembled on the helm of the ship of state, but that of Lincoln was firm We do not see that Mr. Marble has proved his case by the assumption that Mr. Tilden has had more experience than Mr. Hayes, for many other elements ought to be weighed in the scales.

The position of Governor Tilden in respect to the finances is declared by Mr. Marble superior to that of General Hayes, for the reason that while both advocate resumption of specie payments, Tilden has the power to consummate the policy, while Hayes would be its instrument. Mr. Marble denies the sincerity of Governor Hayes and says that Hayes, like Grant, has the high personal competency to deal with the problem. Grant could not have taken a step one inch. Could General Hayes do more? Of course the argument is that Tilden would by his great ability, as the Democratic party to resumption. We do not see the point of this. Mr. Marble has already committed himself, in his letter of acceptance, to make no move to yield to the inflation branch of the party, in the matter of resumption, to make no bargain with Mr. Hendricks Tilden's behalf, and he is this the great compromiser? Mr. Marble himself says of the action of the Democratic House in favor of the policy of the act for resumption in 1879, that "it was a step, should have been carried still something better had been put in its place" yet Governor Tilden apologized for that vital, first to Mr. Marble tries to make a matter of little importance

These are among the points of the letter which will not wholly remove the doubts of those who think Mr. Marble is desirous to put more Mr. Hendricks' letter of acceptance the vote in the House are stumbling block to the Democrats. But if Liberals doubt, Mr. Marble is certain, "We shall succeed." We doubt it certain, and predicts that Ohio will certainly be carried by the Democracy in October. If it is so then this letter is unnecessary, for Mr Hayes loses his own State Tilden has nothing to do but to hang up his hat in the White House.—N. Y Herald

FOR SALE—It was a job to sell old Tweed anything at a decent profit, and indeed to sell him at all, half the time He only looked over goods, asked prices, said they were too high, and walked off One day our friend Twister saw him coming in and told the boys to keep back and he would certainly sell him something before he left the store, and so we stood back and waited

"What's the price of these goods?" said Tweed, taking hold of some that were lying on the counter

"Mr. Twister, are twelve and one-half cents a yard," said the salesman, naming the price at once under the price.

"Twelve and a half! Too high. Now, at twelve we might trade."

"Well, we will say twelve to you," said the salesman

"Well, I don no as I want the goods at twelve," said Twister "It ought to be made an object; now, at eleven and a half I'd buy"

"Well, you will have a case at eleven and a half," said the salesman, determined he should bur at some price"

"Well, I don't want but half a case" said Twister.

"Very well, you will divide the case for you"

"I s'pose," said the purchaser, "you'll throw in the case and won't charge for the cartage"

"Yes," said the salesman, "we'll take out half the case, charge you nothing for cartage, throw in the case, and sell you the goods for eleven and a half cents"

"Six months, I suppose?" said the keen buyer.

"Yes, six months' credit and privilege of returning all you don't sell," said the perseverling seller "Now, I suppose I may ship them right up to your town?"

"No, no, don't be so fast young man I guess I won't take 'em—I don t like to have goods forced on me in that style"—Boston Commercial Bulletin

A GIRL'S PICNIC—The girls got up a picnic last week, and had a glorious time of it altogether They had lots of tea and sugar and milk (which all got sour) but no matches, and plenty of pickles sponge cake and butter but no bread Add to this that each of the girls got their mother to let her bring a roast turkey, so as to astonish the rest of the girls and show that she could do things in style, and that they had no knives and forks, and though lots of plates, no drinking utensils it is not difficult to see that their commissariat was well organized and a source of much harmony, pleasure and satisfaction to all concerned in its preparation After several life long quarrels and such comments as "I don t care," "You are just as mean as dirt" Well, it wasn t my fault anyway" they made a frugal repast of dismembered turkey cold water pickles and sponge cake and then decided to amuse themselves as best they could for the remainder of the day One girl undertook to fish, and having put on her gloves, introduced a hook to her worm but the fierce animal gave a squirm and with a terrific yell she dropped the wild beast right down the back of a friend and young companion dear who was sitting beneath The friend vowed went into active hysterics, and the author of the tragedy impaled her thumb on the fish hook and fainted at the sight of blood After this one of the girls stepped into a swamp about half way up to her ears and a third unearthed a horrid snake seven inches long and while a devoted member of the excursion was stooping down to collect a specimen of that rare and valuable plant, the sorrel Mr Keboe's merino ram stole upon her and butted her over a seven rail fence They then went home to find out what was good for sunburns.—Watertown (N Y) Dispatch

European Grain Prospects

LONDON Sept 11—The Mark Lane Express says there has been more or less unsettled weather throughout the United Kingdom during the last week in the northern districts Wheat cutting has been much interfered with by heavy rains In the South crops were nearly all cut and carried during the fine weather Should the rain continue it is feared barley will suffer in color and quality as in many localities the fields are yet uncleared All the root crops have undergone great improvement Although fears were expressed at one time that the wheat crop would not exceed that of 1875 this opinion is not supported by facts Barley is well spoken of in many places whilst oats are almost universally disappointing Beans and peas have yielded fairly particularly the latter There seems to be some reason for believing that prices have touched the lowest point With but a very marked increase in the amount of business a feeling of greater confidence has sprung up and a decidedly healthier tone has pervaded the trade. Wheat has realized an advance of from 1 to 2 shillings per quarter in the principal country markets and in London in spite of continued heavy supplies from abroad it occasioned an advance of one shilling per quarter This improvement appears to be due to the fact that millers have been holding short stocks in anticipation of a good harvest and now that such anticipations are not likely to be realized they are eager to supply their wants before prices evince a more decided upward improvement. English wheat is being marketed very sparingly This shows more of a demand on foreign produce which would doubtless have advanced in a more positive manner did not large arrivals and full granaries exercise a depressive power upon prices Trade may find some support in the position of political affairs, but at this moment the glutted condition of the granaries checks any material advance. Maize although still in large supply, meets with steady demand, and with a short crop of straw and hay the consumption of corn for feeding purposes has increased enormously The quantity of wheat of late is considerably smaller than it was at this time last year The falling off is mainly due to the decrease of shipments from Atlantic ports. The reports of America and southern Russian crops appear to be decidedly less favorable as to yield than advices have been of late In the floating cargo trade arrivals at ports of call have been very small and business has proceeded steadily at late prices while occasional advances have been established on white descriptions.
